

Campus Groups Will Present Revue Tonight

Students to Act on College Stage in Original Sketches

Music, comedy, and drama will be mingled in an unusual type of entertainment tonight when the first All-College Revue, presented by campus organizations, will be given in the College auditorium. Twelve campus organizations will take part in the Revue, with a wide variety of numbers on the program for the evening.

Organizations which have made entries in the Revue include the Barkatz, Residence Hall, W. A. A., The YMCA and YWCA, the Dance Club, Varsity Villagers, the Freshman Class, O'Neillians, Green and White Peppers, Association for Childhood Education, and the College Dance Band.

More than 180 students will participate in the evening's entertainment, which is a first attempt on the part of the College to present a revue organized and presented entirely by students. It is hoped that the affair will grow into an annual event, with an accompanying revelation of student ability which exists here, but which has never been utilized before.

It must be emphasized that this entertainment is wholly a student production, with students participating in and directing the activities, a few of which might be listed to indicate the type of entertainment which will be presented.

The O'Neillians will present snapshot versions of several modern plays, with cash prizes for those who, in the audience, can give the title of the play indicated in the charade. Residence Hall girls will present a skit, "A Day at the Dorm," and the girls' Triple Trio will be featured in a song revue.

The College Dance Band will also present a "Revue of Swing." This will be the final number on the program.

Several of the organizations have composed their own numbers. Among these are Residence Hall and the A. C. E. Several numbers were also arranged by members of the College band for the Revue of Swing which the band will present.

Tickets for the revue are now on sale on the second floor of the administration building. Cost of the tickets will be twenty-five cents. No activity tickets will be accepted.

The complete program for the evening follows:

1. Hearts and Forts—Barkatz
2. Song Revue—Girls' Triple Trio
3. Here Comes the Bride—Women's Athletic Association
4. Mary's After-World—YMCA and YWCA
5. Broadway Nights—Dance Club
6. A Reading—Varsity Villagers
7. Men of Athens—Freshman Class
8. Best Known Plays—O'Neillian Club
9. Rhythm School—Green-White Peppers
10. A Day at the Dorm—Residence Hall
11. Little Black Sambo—A. C. E.
12. Revue of Swing—College Dance Band

Dr. Blanche H. Dow returned to the College after a short visit to the University of Michigan last week-end where she lectured before a meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Frank Strong led the discussion with a brief address on "The History of Our Foreign Wars in Relation to Foreign Trade." Following this, Franklin Ewing took up the topic of "What We Need From the Old World, and What They Need From Us." Harold Brueggeman closed the discussion with another short talk on "Current Ideas on Our Foreign Trade Policy." After the discussion, some time was given over to questions from the audience, on the various topics presented in the discussion.

The warm spring sunshine was so alluring that it has called a few hard workers out of doors for a short period of relaxation. Shown above is Virgil Klontz, of the Northwest Missourian staff, pretending to interview three of the secretaries of the College. The hard-working ladies are Alleen White, who works in Dr. Smith's office; Marjorie Stone, who takes down Mr. Cooper's dictation, and Arlene Campbell, who boss is Dr. Anthony.

"This Changing Campus"

Students of Northwest Missouri State Teachers College of the present day do not realize the changes which have come about upon the campus within the teaching span of such men as Mr. T. H. Cook of the Social Science Department or Mr. George H. Colbert of the Mathematics Department.

On January 8, 1910, it was voted by the Board of Regents to build a 1/2-mile cinder track north of the "new building," which was the present Administration Building, the track to provide running space for events of the first track meet, which was held April 30 of that year.

On February 2, 1910, there appeared on the campus the first issue of the Normal Index, a forerunner of the Northwest Missourian, stating its purpose thus: "The Normal Index is to be an exponent of the institution. Its pages will contain items of interest pertaining to the school life of Northwest Normal, its social life, athletics, literary societies. It will also have in its columns original articles, such as short stories, poems, and essays."

Later in the year, Miss M. A. Carter, the editor-in-chief, was chosen corresponding secretary for the State Association of College Editors, at a meeting held in Columbia. Eight college papers were represented in the association.

Dr. Ruth Lowery Publishes Critical Study of William Blake's Sketches

Once again, a member of the College faculty has gained recognition in the field of letters and research and steps forth with the publication of a book. Announcement was made this week of the release by the Yale Press of "Windows of the Morning," a critical study of part of William Blake's work, written by Dr. Ruth Lowery of the English department at the College.

The NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN is indebted to Dr. Blanche H. Dow, head of the language department, for the following review of Dr. Lowery's book:

"'Windows of the Morning' is a critical study of the Poetical Sketches of William Blake in which the author sets forth a complete discussion of the book, corrections of errors, long since accepted as fact, in information about its production, and exposes new circumstantial evidence concerning its printing and the personal relationships with which it allied Blake. It examines with meticulous care Blake's indebtedness to his predecessors and contemporaries, and it analyzes with penetrating insight the ways in which his creative imagination acted upon that which he derived from his reading. Out of these two attitudes on the part of the author comes a new appraisal of the Poetical Sketches."

"The book is written with feeling and sympathy as well as with scholarly precision. Some of its finest passages reveal the aesthetic identification of the writer with her subject. The picture of the young Blake responding with awe and reverence of spirit to the sculptured beauty which met his eyes among the silent niches of Westminster, the isolation of his thought from the transient circumstances which marks the lives of most young men, the reflection of his solitary brooding in his poems stir the imagination and identify the reader, as of the new world.

It has obviously done the author, with the magic and the richness of his mood. "Blake never took words," says Dr. Lowery, "...merely as cold, colorless words, but because they flashed images of truth and beauty to his mind. He reflected the image, often heightened and intensified, and often made more brilliant by the light of his own imagination."

In her introductory paragraph to the chapter, "The Influence of Spencer," Dr. Lowery writes: "It is a perennial mystery how the poet, as if by some power of divination, ignoring time, space, and all physical limitations, makes contact with those spirits akin to his own, from whom comes an energizing of mind that quickens in him flashes of insight. Only on the basis of this almost mystic and surely magnetic kinship can one account for one poet's discovery... of his spiritual ancestors, and... his preservation in his own work of a rich heritage of rhythm, expression, and thought, when all other poets with the same opportunities inherited either a slender portion or nothing at all of these same possessions."

"The life and work of Blake, the poet and the artist, have always suggested unanswered questions to the untutored reader and to the untaught observer. The beauty of his poems and of his pictures is apparent, but the search for their meaning has led many a questing mind beyond its depth. 'Windows of the Morning,' Dr. Lowery's title, quoted from a poem by Blake, suggests a second connotation. In the fidelity of scholarly investigation which it attests, in the sympathy and liking for the painter-poet which it records, in the originality of its critical evaluation, it transmits the fresh light of a new approach to and a new interpretation of the great work of Blake. Dr. Lowery has established her right to a place among the Blake scholars, and of the new world.

College Orchestra Plays at Assembly

The assembly program on Wednesday morning, May 15, will be a concert by the music department. It will be under the direction of Mr. Paschal Monk, chairman of the department, and he will be assisted by the other members of the department.

The main part of the program will consist of several numbers by the College orchestra under the direction of Mr. John W. Geiger. Some of the numbers which the orchestra will play are "Introduction to Act Three," Lohengrin-Wagner; and a part of the Mississippi Suite by Grofe.

Several students who are doing extra work in the Conservatory will appear in solo numbers. Ensemble groups will complete the program.

Arrangements are being made this week for an informal banquet next Tuesday night for members of the dance club.

John Dunlap Speaks Before SS-IRC Group

Student Explains Plan Which He Has Studied During Eight Years

"Nationalism, imperialism, isolationism, and internationalism have all failed in establishing and maintaining world peace and prosperity," John Dunlap told members of the Social Science-International Relations Club Tuesday night. "Only one alternative is left, worldism," he emphasized.

Dunlap, who has been working eight years on a plan for world union which he claims as his own, outlined his proposal at the Club's regular meeting. During these years he has devoted most of his spare time to a policy which he calls "An Outline for World Federation and Organization of the Central Government."

In his plan Dunlap has listed the following governmental departments:

1. Science for research, discovery, invention, and exploration.
2. Education for dissemination of information and knowledge.
3. Organization which would promote cooperation in man's activities.
4. Legislation providing for law and order.
5. Administration which would maintain law and order.
6. Justice which would administer justice in the enforcement of law and order.

Dunlap has listed twenty-one requirements for a world political, social, and economic order; ten modern universal human wants; ten modern primary human needs, and twenty-four secondary universal human needs.

"Inventions appear only when they are needed. Until now the world has not needed a universal government," Dunlap told the Club. He maintains that the close of the present World War would be an appropriate time to put his plan for world unification into practice.

Ranking Students Are to Be Guests

Four highest ranking students from each class will be guests at the annual A. A. U. P. banquet given in their honor May 18 at the Hotel Linville.

The professorial address on "Science and Scientific Attitudes" will be given by Dr. Frank Horsfall of the College agricultural department.

The receiving line will consist of the officers of the association. The committee in charge is composed of Miss Chloe Millikan, chairman; Miss Estella Bowman, Miss June Cozine, Mr. Hubert Garrett, and Mr. Paschal Monk.

in onions and early corn by the students." The onions were planted where the long walk now is.

Instead of dancing, the seniors of 1910 played Matador. Present students may have to do research on the game to find out what it is.

Mr. Colbert was an early riser in those days, for history records that on May 4, 1910, he got up at 4 a. m. But who would not when seeing Halley's comet—the first person in Maryville to see it—was the reward?

Somewhat of a change from today was the time of assembly for the summer quarter of 1910, every day, 12:10 to 12:30, with seniors in charge of Saturday assemblies, the class agreeing to serve luncheon to all who attended.

With 200 enrolling for the summer term, the city paper commented upon "the rush of students" which was making necessary the employing of additional faculty.

Probably that rush of students hurried up the letting of the contract on June 20, 1910, for "1078 opera chairs for the huge auditorium."

The Y. M. C. A. was needing money that June, and Mr. Cook and Mr. Cooper served as auctioneers at a benefit picnic supper, at which they succeeded in getting from a quarter to $1.50 each for the picnic.

Those who now come out Ninth Street could not have done so before 1910, for the street was not ordered opened to the college grounds until July 5 of that year.

Traffic on the campus could not have been the problem that it is today when Jimmy Montgomery's father was reported to have been one of an auto party who made the trip to St. Joseph in 2 hours and 10 minutes and the return trip in 2 hours and 35 minutes.

To Give a Music Festival May 11

King, Edward Daniels, John Cornutt, Mary Russell and Hazel Gates, and Robert Stanton, Clayton Poynter, Quentin Beggs, Herbert Enis and John Hood are managers of the grade school meets.

Horace Mann Seniors Take Two-Day Tour

Thirty Graduates See Educational and Political Facilities

Thirty Horace Mann High School seniors wearily tumbled into their beds last Wednesday night, after they had returned from a two-day jaunt across Central Missouri in the College bus.

This year's trip gave the graduating seniors an opportunity to learn something about the educational facilities and the political institutions of their home state. A visit to the state capital and the University of Missouri, which were included in the itinerary, gave them a valuable lesson in citizenship and training for future life.

Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Dieterich and Miss Margaret Porter, instructor, the group left for Kansas City Tuesday morning. Following a tour of the Kansas City Star building and the Nelson Art Gallery, the seniors paid a visit to Englewood Dam before driving to Jefferson City where they spent the night.

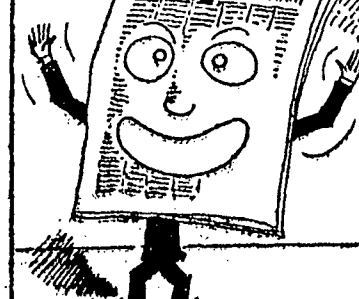

A tour of the State Capitol and the state penitentiary in Jefferson City and the University of Missouri at Columbia filled out the morning of the second day. After a short visit to the Arrow Rock state park, the bus with its thirty occupants swung back to Maryville.

For one-armed drivers:

Art Department Starts Exhibit

The Fine Arts department has started a "picture of the week" case in the studio. In this case a different picture will be placed each week.

During the past week it contained a painting by Miss Olive S. DeLuce, chairman of the Fine Arts department here at the College. It is a picture of the harbor at St. Ives, and Miss DeLuce calls it "Harbor of St. Ives."

Next week the case will contain a painting by the Portland painter, Anders Zorn. It is a portrait, and is called "Swedish Peasant Girl."

Zorn's color is gray, but he also used a great deal of black and red, duly qualified with yellow. These colors, combined, produce a tenderness and variety, the more so when his bold brush stroke and ability to manage light and shadow are considered.

"Swedish Peasant Girl" is an example of one of the best types of Zorn's work. It is typically Swedish, and shows his ability as a student of character.

Any students who are interested are invited to see the exhibit each week.

An Egyptian water jug is on display in the exhibit case on the second floor of the Administration Building this week. This jug is of white clay and is very porous. It is constructed so that it will keep water cool for a great length of time.

Y Organizations Install Officers

Members of the YW and YMCA installed new officers and paid tribute to retiring officers and seniors who are graduating this year at a pot-luck supper at the "Y" hut in the College park last night.

A movie illustrating activities at Camp Hollister was shown to acquaint the people who plan to attend the meeting there next June with life in the Camp.

Those in charge of the supper were: Program, Paul Smith and Ena June Garrett; installation of officers and senior tribute, Ferris Baker and Mary Jane Johnson; menu, Evelyn Dow; Ellis Reynolds and Etta Marie Hage; guests and greetings, Harold Johnson and Dorothy Bealls.

Avis Wengert Heads Varsity Villagers

Avis Wengert was installed as president of the Varsity Villagers for the coming year at a council dinner held last Wednesday, May 8, at the Phares Tea Room.

Other officers installed were: Fern Appan, vice-president; Hattie Haup, secretary; and Mary Ann Busby, treasurer.

Honor guests at the dinner were Dr. Margaret Ruth Smith, sponsor of the organization, and Miss Dorothy Tyson.

The Varsity Villagers' crest and colors of blue and gold were used in table appointments.

Dr. Ruth Lowery will go to Parkville tomorrow where she will speak to the Senior Women of Park College at a tea given by the Parkville branch of the A. A. U. W. Her topic will be "Women in Education."

College Education Proves Its Worth

We can prove now that a college education is worth at least $64, in case you were wondering.

A City College man was a contestant at a preview of Bob Hawk's new CBS show, "Take It or Leave It," the one which ups the ante. And thus the risk, every time one answers a question correctly, the student romped right through six questions, entitling him to $32 if he stopped there and either $64 or nothing if he took a chance on the next question.

Hawk looked at the next question and advised him to quit. He refused. The question was, "How many signers were there to the Declaration of Independence?" The City College man had been asked it in a history quiz the day before. He pocketed the $64. The answer is 56, in case you're not taking History 10.

If you are taking History 10, you can write your own ticket—as well as your own column, till next week, same place, same time—Roger Starr.

Guess Where I'm From Is Baton Rouge Game

Baton Rouge, La.—(ACP)—If you say "I asked her could I have a date" you label yourself as a Louisiana. If you hail from another part of the country, you would say "I asked her if I could have a date."

Dr. Claude M. Wise, head of the department of speech at Louisiana State University and authority on Louisiana dialects, can tell, moreover, from what section of Louisiana a student comes, just by his speech.

An American was on a walking-tour in Scotland. Snow had fallen, and he was struggling along a narrow road when he met a Highlander.

"I guess, friend, I sure am lost!" he said, plaintively.

Scott: "Is there a reward out for ye?"

American: "None."

Scott: "Weel, ye're still lost." (Drury Mirror)

Students Do Not Forget Manners

Manners Are Stressed College Survey Shows

Portales, N. M.—(ACP)—Whether or not it is true, as some one has written, that "women are making gigolos, lounge lizards and dress-maker models of men," it is one hundred per cent true that both men and women at Eastern New Mexico College prefer men who are mannerly. This is the conclusion drawn from personality survey of likes and dislikes of students enrolled in general psychology courses conducted by Mrs. Lou Berkness.

Each student checked thirty personal traits of a person liked and disliked, both of their own and the opposite sex. Women voted one hundred per cent for men who were friendly, honest, and intelligent. Cheerfulness is a necessary trait for men and women, too. If the vote of the men students is an indicator of preference, and certainly the "beautiful but dumb" maid is not the popular one for the men.

Eighty-five per cent of the men like an intelligent girl and fifty per cent admit that the best girl is not beautiful.

Men are almost unanimous in their choice of the girl who is entertaining, generous, and loyal. While men prefer women who are cheerful, they also demand the same quality among friends of their own sex. Women demand one hundred per cent loyalty from their men.

Neither men nor women like one who is rude, the survey showed.

Book Review

A SMATTERING OF IGNORANCE (By Oscar Levant. 267 pp. Doubleday, $2.00.)

Essentially Oscar Levant is an entertaining fellow, even in his most serious moments, and entertaining is the basic quality of his book. He has included enough wit and malice and pleasantry to satisfy the most voracious of appetites for private lives of the notable whose names go up in lights. A smattering of ignorance presents a parade of such parables.

The drama of George Gershwin's career has been related almost too frequently since his untimely death, but Mr. Levant leads such personal warmth to it, such sure technical knowledge of the musical composition observed by a fellow worker who basked in Gershwin's spirit, and such wry humor of the type Levant and Gershwin enjoyed together and with a peculiar gusto of their own, that one may welcome the chapter on Gershwin as the best account of that composer's life to date.

Radio listeners who like the "Information, Please" type of humor will find the book to be pleasant reading.

AND THEN THERE WERE NONE (By Agatha Christie. Dodd, Mead, and Company. 264 pp. $2.00)

Agatha Christie does it again with this baffling mystery story. Hercule Poirot does not appear, but that will matter little to the dyed-in-the-wool mystery story fan, who needs no introduction to Agatha Christie. The whole story is utterly impossible, but nevertheless, utterly fascinating. It is the most baffling mystery that Miss Christie has yet written, and if any other writer has ever surpassed it, for sheer puzzlement the name escapes our memory. This refers, of course, to mysteries that have a logical explanation, as this one has. It is a tall story, to be sure, but it could have happened.

SONG AFTER MIDNIGHT (By Helen Topping Miller. 245 pp. Appleton-Century, $2.00)

Josephine B. Crane's grandfather had wanted to be an artist, so when Jo showed signs of talent she was sent off to New York to study. But Jo fell in love with an art teacher and married him only to discover their ideas of money and honesty were incompatible. Eventually, after a brief interlude in Louisiana, Jo escapes back to the Texas ranch home, her own painting, grandmother, and a man who can give real happiness to her.

The story is told with a command of dramatic interest which Mrs. Miller has not always demonstrated in her previous writings.

Art Class Gains Novel Experience

The commercial art classes, under the supervision of Miss Olive S. DeLuce, have been carrying on a project whereby they are learning by actual experience.

These classes went to one of the downtown dress shops and set up their studio there. In this shop they studied design, and each person selected one dress as a special project.

The dresses were first modeled, and then their good points were picked out and discussed. Next, each person made a sketch of the dress which he had selected.

The class is now making window cards for these dresses, with the idea in mind of the advertising value of their cards. Miss DeLuce says that in this way the class will gain actual experience in advertising.

Earlier this year, the same class took over the problem of selling Bearcat signs for cars. This gave them experience in selling what they had produced.

Aluminating The Alumni

Miss Beatrice Lemon, a graduate of the College, who has been teaching commerce at Corning, Ia., during the past year, wrote in that her first year typewriting team won first place at the Iowa State Commercial Contests and was now eligible to enter the International Contest to be held at Chicago next month.

Gene Nickel who graduated from the College last year, has been named coach at the New Market High School for the coming year. He has coached at the Gravity High School since his graduation.

Carlyle Breckenridge, a graduate of the College, has received an appointment in the department of politics at Princeton University. He has been teaching at Christian College this year in addition to doing work toward his doctorate at the University of Missouri.

Edgar Abbott, former news editor on the staff of the NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN, was working last week in Sedalia, Mo., it was learned here. He is employed by the McCall Corporation.

While in Chillicothe as delegates to an A. A. U. W. convention, Dr. Ruth Lowry and Miss Olive DeLuce met two former students of the College, Miss Lela Maharg and Miss Alice Lawler who are now teaching in the Chillicothe schools.

This Way . . .

1. Is it correct to turn one's glass upside down when no beverage is desired?
No. This is a very ridiculous thing to do. Simply say "No thank you," or simply shake your head when the waiter offers to fill your glass.
2. When a person is using the stairway who is given preference, the person coming up or going down?
Always give the person coming up the stairs preference. It is more difficult to walk up than it is to come down.
3. Who should sit in the aisle seat at the theater, the man or woman?
The man sits on the aisle seat or the seat nearest the aisle, particularly as the woman takes her seat first. Many times, however, it is impossible for the woman to see; if so she may sit in the aisle seat.

Greater Part of College Students Earn Way Through

The 1,200,000 American boys and girls now studying in 1600 U. S. colleges and universities no longer regard their schooling as a luxury, but as necessary equipment in the highly competitive business of finding a job, the latest March of Time film, "America's Youth—1940", shows.

The film, which pictures the story behind the lives and problems of America's twenty-one million young men and women today, shows that most college students must earn all or part of their expenses, and that an indispensable adjunct of today's educational system is the college employment bureau which serves as a clearing house for part-time jobs both on and off the campus.

Fifty percent of college men and sixty percent of college girls, the film points out, look forward to marriage within two years after graduation; and with eighty percent of all U. S. schools and colleges now co-educational, most college boys and girls who marry within the next five years will have met their wives or husbands on the campus.

With typical "case histories"—real boys and girls playing their real-life roles—the film recreates on the screen the average college boy and girl, the office factory and farm worker, the unemployed youngster who has grown up in depression and has never known normal times, and many other types as well.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and Thomas E. Dewey are the leading college choices for the U. S. presidency in November, the Surveys finds in this study conducted with the cooperation of The Northwest Missourian and scores of other undergraduate papers. The president and his party, however, have succeeded in gaining the favor of the greatest group of collegians.

At Westminster College in Missouri May 1, 2, and 3 student delegates from all corners of the country will gather for political conventions that will give a glimpse of what the undergraduate world thinks of candidates and parties. Herewith is presented a preview of the news that may come out of those conventions, in the form of statistics that represent the entire U. S. student enrollment.

"Which party would you favor in the national elections next November?" interviewers asked last week.

Democratic, said . . . 47 per cent
Republican, said . . . 39 per cent
Other parties, 7 per cent; don't know, 7 per cent.

When the ballots from qualified student voters only were tabulated, an even greater number, 51 per cent, favored the Democrats, 34 going to the Republicans.

"Whom would you like to see nominated for president in that party?" asked in preceding question?

Horace Mann . . . in the news

An all-school picnic is being held today by the teachers and pupils of the Horace Mann High School on McNeill's Farm near Maryville. A picnic lunch will be served at noon and games and sports will fill out the afternoon.

One second and one fourth place were carried off by Horace Mann School athletes at the annual State athletic meet at Columbia last weekend. Gene Brodick took second place in the low hurdles event and the 440 yard dash came in fourth in the afternoon.

Ralph Tindall, Horace High School debater, attended the annual State Dramatic Festival at Columbia last week-end. He received a number III rating in the extemporaneous speaking division.

Roses and Razzes

Spring has come so many times to the campus in the last two or three months that I refuse to discuss the matter pro or con, but it seems that mention might well be made here of the fact that the social committee is attempting to catch the errant season in one of his better moments in order to sponsor the All-College Jamboree on Friday, May 17.

Any of you who have ever attended one of these rip-snorting good times have not forgotten it. I'll wager. Say what you will, it's one of those occasions where faculty and students "let down their hair" together to the mutual amusement and delight of both. There are one jagged race, sack races... badminton... faculty vs. students in volleyball... softball on two or three diamonds... five cent prizes galore which can be redeemed for food at the Kappa Omicron Phi stand... tennis... swimming... and just about everything you can think of for a good time.

A little reminiscence may be permitted me here as I sense a vagrant memory of seeing the then president of the student body, Richard Shrout, contest Dean Jones in a chocolate pie eating contest. It wasn't a delicate contest, either, and the crowd enjoyed it not one whit more than the two be-smearing and be-spattered contestants. Faculty wives are also in attendance on this big afternoon, and here is a fine opportunity to do a little apple-polishing on the side in a slightly different manner.

Husband Calling Contest
Another memory returns of the husband calling contest of a previous year. If my memory doesn't fail me, Mrs. E. A. Davis was the victor in this branch of the festivities with a "Lef-teeeeee" that could have been heard in the next county. Then it was the turn of Mrs. Baldwin who with a clearing of her throat caused the whole crowd to burst into roars of laughter as her shout of "Baldy" brought cur registrar on the run from the back of the gymnasium where the men were stationed until they heard their respective calls.

Mrs. Richard Wright is a psychologist extraordinary as is evidenced by the fact that her method of arousing Mr. Wright in time for breakfast is to penetrate the walls of his slumber with "Richard, biscuits." The fact that habit is a wonderful thing was proved by the fact that Mr. Wright nearly trimmed an arc in the corner of the building before he recollected that this was only a contest in fun.

"Oh, Mr. R."
But the one that brought one of our best loved faculty members to the front of the gym where the women were stationed was "Oh, Mr. R." with which Mrs. Rickenbrode summoned the business manager to her side. It is only to be hoped that this contest may be repeated again this year.

Another that is a sure winner is the hog-calling contest. Our mutual friend, Mr. Cooper, freshman adviser, will be defending his title as Campus Champen Hog Caller. Northwest Missouri porkers still remember the lusty "who-o-ee!" with which Mr. Cooper rightly claimed the honor of the title.

So come on down and have a peek of unrestrained fun at the all-school Jamboree.

Princeton Seniors Have Lots of Work

Princeton, N. J.—(ACP)—Thirty-six Princeton University seniors are exempt from attendance at all classes under the no-course plan, but they're finding more work to do and more classes to attend than the average senior.

All became eligible for the special plan of study by virtue of their high scholastic averages in the last two years. Now they're devoting long hours to completion of senior theses on broader and more difficult topics than usually undertaken. Nearly every man is attending lectures and preceptorials in at least four undergraduate or graduate courses.

Former Student Earns Wings

Wings of the United States Army Air Corps soon will be worn by a former College man, member of a class of 210 Flying Cadets, who completed their basic flight training at Randolph Field, Texas, the "West Point of the Air" last week.

Flying Cadet M. C. Rowan, Jr., Powersville, Mo., graduate of the College in 1934 with a B. S. degree, and member of the Alpha Phi Sigma, is among the members of class 40-D who will transfer to Kelly Field for an additional three-month period of advanced flying instruction before receiving their coveted pair of wings, emblematic of a military pilot, and their commissions as Second Lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve.

Corps Reserve.

Under the Air Corps expansion program, inaugurated in July, 1939, a total of 5,500 airplanes and more than 2,000 additional pilots are to be added to the aerial branch of the army within a two-year period. Many of the new planes are of an improved training type, known as the BT-14s, as shown above.

Rowan is in the first class of future pilots who have received instruction on this new 450 horsepower low wing monoplane. Gerald Rowan, also a graduate of the College, is a brother of M. C. Rowan.

Students Give Joint Recital

Musicians Combine Talent in Program

A joint recital, presented by students in the Conservatory of Music, will be presented at 7 o'clock, Tuesday evening, May 14. Faculty members, students, and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Kenneth Tebow, violinist and pupil of Miss Jacinta Kampmeier, will play several violin selections. His first number will be the "Concerto in D Major" by Mozart.

This concerto, written in Mozart's flawless style, brings out the quality of the violin at its clearest and best. The middle movement, with its appealing lyric melody is a perfect contrast to the brilliance of the first movement and the sparkling gaiety of the third.

Those who are familiar with the smooth, expressive quality of Handel's melodic writing will find the lovely serenity of "Larghetto," the second violin selection, more than satisfying.

A favorite was an old French dance with a gay, quick tempo, and this will be the subject of the third violin selection. This one is by Bach, and has proved to be one of the most irresistible gavottes ever written and is a favorite wherever the music of Bach is played.

For the second part of the program there will be given for the first time in this college and probably for the first time in this part of the country, the celebrated humorous "Coffee Cantata," by Johann Sebastian Bach, costumed in the style of the period.

If you have heard Alec Templeton play his arrangement called "Bach Goes To Town," you probably imagine Bach as an antiquated old classicist who needs somebody as "modern" as Alec to give him pep and humor. However, if you hear the "Coffee Cantata" next Tuesday, you will find that Bach had a sense of humor in his own right, and that he, on occasion, could make fun of himself and of his own style of composition.

"The Coffee Cantata" is a burlesque of the stolid and formal cantatas of Bach's day. He chose a most frivolous and ridiculous theme—that of a disobedient flighty daughter who is ordered by her pompous father to give up her serious crime of "drinking coffee at least three times a day."

The cast consists of three characters: the narrator, sung by Merrill Ostrus; the daughter, Elizabeth Garder; and the father, Robert Clark. The soloists are pupils of H. N. Schuster, voice instructor in the Conservatory.

Mrs. Hermann Schuster will play the piano accompaniment for the cantata.

Three Hundred Guests Attend Quad Dance

Patriotism Serves As Theme to Climax of Two Years' Progress

Dancing to the music of the College Dance Band was the entertainment that members of the NYA Quad provided for three hundred students and faculty last Friday night. Both rooms of the old library were given over to the dancers for the event, which was the climax to two years' progress with the Resident Training Center. The guests were served from ten until eleven in the Commons at the Quad, where open house for guests was observed.

A theme of patriotism was followed with decorations of red, white, and blue. At one end of the library the initials of the National Youth Administration were outlined, while at the opposite end of the room the United States flag was draped. Streamers were tied over the center of the west room and in the east room the streamers formed a similar roof. The band was placed near the middle of the west side of the library. This arrangement allowed the music to be heard by the dancers in both rooms.

Mother of Former Dean Dies in Iowa

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. T. C. Stephenson of Cedar Falls, Ia., mother of Miss Margaret Stephenson, former director of women's personnel at the College.

Miss Stephenson left the College in 1938 and now holds a similar position at the University of Oklahoma at Norman. Mrs. Stephenson died Sunday last week as a result of pneumonia. She is survived by her husband, Dr. Stephenson, a son and two daughters.

Dr. Ruth Lowery Talks to Senior College Women

Guests of the American Association of University of Women at tea last Tuesday afternoon, May 7, were the senior women of the College. Dr. Ruth Lowery spoke to the guests on "What A. A. U. W. Means to Senior Women of 1940."

Dr. Blanche Dow and Miss Olive DeLuca presided at the tea table during the afternoon. Arrangements for the tea, which was held at the Dream Kitchen, were made by Miss Roberta Utterback and Miss Eunice Scott.

Dr. Lowery in speaking to the senior women, warned American women they should be aware of the impending dangers of the "great blackout of all our own worlds," citing the "blackness is from desecration of sanctity and honor, from murder of justice, from the crucifixion of liberty of thought and enslavement of womanhood."

Let women be too smug about their positions, she said "to us women in America, life has been comparatively easy and free, and opportunity so commonplace that we forget if we ever knew that the position we hold has been won after a long struggle." She said the position is not secure against the threats of many kinds and sources. Woman's position is not impregnable, she said, and gave some glimpses into the story of development of woman's position in society, particularly with respect to education.

She pointed out the names of women who have made woman's present position possible, listing Jane Addams, Edith Abbott, Florence Nightingale, Madam Currie, Dr. Gaposchkin, Alice Freeman Palmer and Mary Lyon. They won their education, she said, by a hard battle against set mores and opposition of men, and who were fired with ambition to make education available to other women.

Dr. Lowery said it was by the efforts of such women that women's colleges were founded and directed and women of today have privileges they take so casually. She asked:

"Where are there now among our college seniors, women so grateful for what education has done for them, so jealous of the hard-won opportunities women have, so afraid with determination to safeguard these privileges so that other women shall have no less—that they will now make themselves felt in every community as a bulwark of strength?"

"Where are there senior women today, who, having been equipped with training denied many others, will work unceasingly, whether home-makers or business and professional women, that the gains for women shall not be lost? Democracy and feminism will be saved together or will go down together. There is really no choice for women, for it is either intelligent participation in affairs and sharing with men, or it is the loss of hard-won gains, economically, socially and professionally."

She said that the AAUW invited into membership any woman graduating from a college or university that is approved by the national organization. "What does this mean?" she asked, and answered:

"It means that the AAUW has held such high standards for approval that more than any other agency for the improvement of the quality of American education, it has brought about equal opportunities of study for women and men, better housing and health conditions within colleges, more sanity in curricular offerings and some share by women in instructional staffs."

The school colors of green and white were used in the overhead streamers and the dance programs.

Mr. J. L. Zwingle and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Wales were honor guests. Mr. Wales formerly taught in the commerce department in the College.

Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Surrey, Dr. Margaret Ruth Smith, Miss Dorothy Truex, and Mr. M. W. Wilson and their guests.

Bearcats Have Slight Chances for Capturing MIAA Track Meet at Warrensburg

With Barton and Weary Crippled, High Hopes Fade

Although defeated in only one meet this season, the Maryville Bearcats, who had a rosy prospect two months ago, are contenders for second place in the MIAA track carnival Saturday at Warrensburg. Coach Wilbur Stalcup of the Bearcats says that with the pole vault, shot put, 440, hurdles, dashes and discus clinched, Cape Girardeau should have no trouble winning its sixth title.

The MIAA conference meet has made the rounds of the schools and the last time the Bearcats won was the last time it was held at Warrensburg when Herschel Nell was running under Bearcat colors in the dashes and jumps.

The Rolla Miners will be hampered with almost sure winners taking an eastern trip this week which will leave the fight for second place between Maryville, Kirksville and Springfield.

WILL ARRANGE BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Although Maryville drubbed Kirksville earlier in the season in a dual meet, the Bulldogs showed more strength last week in a triangular meet at Warrensburg. The last time the meet was held at Warrensburg the finals were run at night under the generalship of Tad Reid, now a Maryvillian, who made a colorful spectacle of the carnival by much fanfare.

The meet will be completed by late Saturday afternoon as preliminaries in the dash and field events will start at 9 a. m. and the finals in the javelin and discus run off before the noon hour. Coach Stalcup will leave Friday morning for Warrensburg in order to be present for a luncheon at which time the MIAA coaches will arrange next year's basketball schedule. Friday afternoon the coaches and officials will participate in a golf tourney and at the evening dinner the coaches will draw for lanes and finish up the tail ends of the cage schedule.

TO TAKE GOLF TENNIS TEAMS

Coach Ryland Milner will leave here Friday afternoon with the track and golf teams in order to arrive there Friday evening. Springfield is conceded the tennis trophies already with their Perry boys perennial winners. Schultz will enter the singles and he and Hutcheson the doubles for Maryville. Adams and Snyder will be the Bearcat entries in the golf tournament.

Coach Stalcup says four records are in jeopardy in Saturday's meet if conditions are favorable. Three Cape Indians are expected to make bids for new marks. Spurlock may vault to a new record with Harry Darr of Maryville giving him competition as last Friday he vaulted 12 feet 4 inches. Wolfe of Cape already this season has bettered the shot put mark and Allison, another Indian, may clip the 440 record.

WAYNE TAYLOR MAY SET NEW RECORD

Wayne Taylor, the Bearcat sophomore from Mound City, is the only Maryvillian who has a chance of establishing a new mark. Although his best time this year is about 2:01 in the half mile, Coach Stalcup believes he can run the distance in 1:58, or two seconds better than the record. Taylor also will run the mile and if he isn't pushed too much may run a lap in the mile relay. Maryville has a chance in this relay with Darr, Reital, Baker and Yasinski probable entries and each able to run a quarter around 53 seconds. Norman Reital, senior from St. Joseph, pulled up at 53 seconds.

Speakers on the Y. M. C. A. Gospel Team tour, the last of the season, which will be next Sunday, will be Ferris Baker, Carl Roberts, Wallace Oursler, and Virgil Elliott. About twenty-five College men are expected to make the trip.

A morning program will be given at Guilford. An afternoon program will be given at Graham, and an evening program at Maitland. The afternoon program is at 3 p. m.

yesterday in the last hard practice before the conference meet for his best time.

Also Merrill Ostrus, senior from Wlota, Ia., showed promise of taking points in the hurdles when he negotiated the high timbers in 15.5 yesterday. The conference mark is 14.8.

BEARCAT TEAM IS CRIPPLED

Chances for the half mile Bearcat relay team were further diminished this week when Neil Weary, who runs a leg, was laid up with an infected foot and didn't report for practice. Elmer Barton of St. Joseph, the Bearcat sprinter who has been nursing along a pulled muscle all spring, finally went to the hospital this week and is definitely out. With Barton in the dashes, low hurdles and half mile relay, the Bearcats might have had some chance in the conference meet.

Coach Stalcup said last night that Andy Kruse, the Iowa weight entry, had been called for duty to drive a truck to Jefferson City to take a load of Regimental band players to the Governor's reception. With Kruse out, Melvin Carter is the on-call discus and should take some points.

1. Jack Benny..... 10.0%
2. Bob Hope..... 7.1
3. Information Please..... 7.0
4. Glenn Miller..... 6.6

Jack Benny leads in only the East Central, West Central, and the Far Western states. In New England Information Please and the Hit Parade are tied, and in the Middle Atlantic, Information Please leads. Southern collegians say Kay Kyser and his musical college is first.

Amherst Students Keep Good Health

Amherst, Mass.—(ACP)—An increased awareness of how to stay in good health is demonstrated by students of Massachusetts State College under a system of allowing each student a maximum of seven days in the college infirmary, according to Dr. Ernest J. Radcliffe, college physician.

Fewer bed patients were accommodated in the infirmary last year than in the year previous, he reported, while the attendance in the outpatient department was considerably greater.

'Cats Overpower Raven Athletes

The Bearcat cinder men swamped the St. Benedict Ravens last Friday, 110 to 21. Maryville copped first in every event but the half mile relay, and had not a Bearcat dropped the baton in passing to a teammate, the Teachers would have won this event. As was the Bearcats gave the Ravens a scare because almost all the slack lost was regained at the finish.

The feature of the day was the 440 yard dash. Collins, Raven runner, having fast time all season was doped to win, and was the Ravens' single entry. Maryville had Baker, Darr and Reital. Using a little strategy, Baker indirectly won the race for the locals. At the start he challenged the Raven runner with all he had for about 300 yards. After Baker had run Collins down Darr who had been coasting along passed Collins and won the race. Reital was a close second.

Reno and Darr cleared the 12 foot mark in the pole vault. Again Taylor played his iron man stunt winning the mile and half mile. He would have set a record in the half but he not run the first quarter in 54 seconds only one second slower than the quarter. But when he'll be trying to set a record will be at the State meet at Warrensburg tomorrow. The conference record is 2 minutes flat and Wayne has been within one second of it several times this season.

Carter was high point man for the Bearcats with 13 points, getting first in the discus and shot put and second in the high hurdles.

Other double winners on the Bearcat team were Taylor, who won the mile and half mile; McLaughlin, who won the 100 yard dash and low hurdles; Darr, who won the 440 yard dash and tied for first in the pole vault.
